30,000 REBELS JOIN HUERTA

By HARRY H. DUNN.

Special Staff Correspondent of the American.

VERA CRUZ, April 30.—More than 30,000 Mexican rebels have accepted General Victoriano Huerta's offer of amnesty and have pledged their support to the Mexican government in its conflict with the United States, according to advices received here from Mexico City today.

The insurgent forces that have promised to support Huerta are the following: Rafael Buelna, commanding 6,000 men in Sinaloa; Emiliano and Eufemio Zapata, commanding 18,000 men in Morelos, Puebla; Jesus Salgado, commanding 6,000 men in Vera Cruz and Oaxaca, and Jose Alvarez, commanding 1,500 men in Guerrero.

Proclamations offering amnesty were sent to all towns in the republic south of Mexico City.

Although General Huerta has given notice of his acceptance of the offer of mediation made by Argentina, Brazil and Chile, he is continuing with his war measures. Urgent calls for volunteers to fight the Americans were sent to the Federal governors of all the States controlled by the Huerta regime and if these, twenty-one responded with the guarantee that they would raise from 3,000 to 45,000 men each. Practically all such volunteers would be drawn from the poor class men who have absolutely no knowledge of warfare and whose usefulness would consist only in carrying on guerrilla fighting in the event of hostilities with the United States.

TENDERS TO VILLA.
General Huerta is reported to have been reassured by General Joaquin

Shaw, commanding the Federals in the northern military zone, of the loyalty of his troops, and the remnants of General Velasco's army may also remain loyal to Huerta, but this is doubtful as about 2,000 deserted to the Constitutionalists after the fall of Torreon.

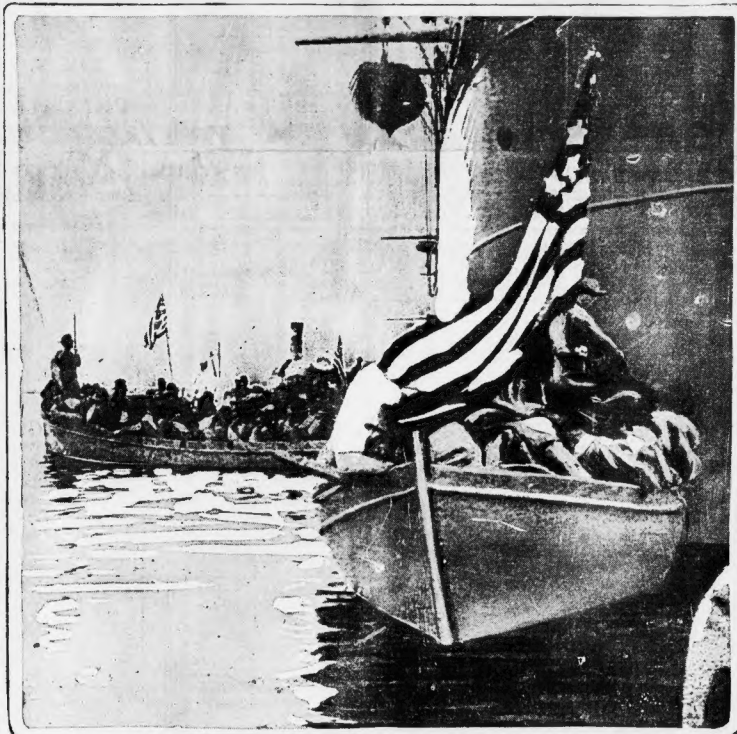

Federal emissaries are at present in northern Mexico trying to deal with General Francisco Villa. It was a significant fact that Huerta opened his negotiations with Villa instead of with Carranza, the provisional President of the Constitutionals. The dictator evidently believes that, if he can secure the cooperation of the Constitutionals, he would be in a position to carry on effective warfare against a powerful nation as big as the United States.

General Laura Villares, commander

REBEL CHIEF IS 'ON TO MEXICO'

WASHINGTON, April 30.—GENERAL FRANCISCO VILLA IS THE STUMBLING BLOCK IN THE WAY OF MEDIATION TODAY. ALTHOUGH CARRANZA HAS ACCEPTED THE "PRINCIPLE OF MEDIATION," VILLA HAS BEEN SILENT; AND ALTHOUGH THE MEDIATORS ARE ASKING AN ARMISTICE, VILLA HAS SET ON FOOT A NEW REBEL CAMPAIGN AGAINST SALTILLO. IT IS DECLARED TO BE THE FIRST MOVE IN AN "ON TO MEXICO" CAMPAIGN.

Villa's action has caused much concern here. The last news of him was received when he left Chihuahua on a special train bound for Torreon. There he expected to gather the victory-whetted troops who helped him capture Torreon and push on toward Saltillo, where Federal soldiers have failed to prevent rioting that has cost the lives of several men.

Beyond Saltillo lies Mexico City, and Mexico City is Villa's avowed goal.

Mediation hangs on the armistice proposal, it today appears. If Villa refuses to accede to an armistice Huerta is hardly to be expected to agree. To do so would mean that he remained quiet while Villa pushed farther and farther into his territory.

Carranza's acceptance of mediation, some believe, will bind Villa. But others say that with Villa campaigning in Central Mexico, Carranza may find it impossible to establish communication and win his consent to the armistice. Villa, if he wished to avoid an open refusal, could easily keep out of reach of messages.

Huerta has apparently decided to draw his forces nearer to Mexico City. This is the explanation put here upon the evacuation of Nuevo Laredo and Monterey. If his policy is carried out, Saltillo would probably fall into Villa's hands without much opposition.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Additional news of rioting, in which one American and many other foreigners are said to have been killed, was received here today from Saltillo, Mex. A German factory was looted and burned. A British bank was attacked, the vaults robbed, and the cashier and three assistants—one an American—killed.

The Herald today, in an inconspicuous way, says that its circulation figures, published in October last, were gross, and not net paid. But the Herald even now does not give the net paid for that period! Of the 88,066 that the Sunday Herald claimed for the six months ending September, 1913, how much was net paid? Why were gross figures given to the U. S. government? Net paid figures only are required by law. Gross is not. Why not tell the truth now? The American will publish the Herald's own figures, very conspicuously, if the Herald will furnish them. Why not try to be honest?

Meanwhile, as the Herald wisely remarks:

MINE ARBITERS NAMED

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—Secretary of Labor Wilson announced today the appointment of William H. Paterly of Alabama, an official of the United Mine Workers, and Hywel Buelna, president of the mine operators of Kentucky, as his official representatives in an attempt to bring about an adjustment of the mining troubles in Colorado.

Paterly and Buelna are now on their way to Washington and will leave for Colorado after they have received their instructions here.

DENVER, Col., April 30.—United

The guerrilla fighting that has marked the struggle between the operators and miners was halted.

At many points the strikers rendered their arms with the understanding that they were not to be taken into custody.

Among the first to turn over their weapons to the authorities were the

Braves and Giants Have Another Rest

Rain again caused the postponement of the Brave battle with the Giants here today, and the game will be fought during the next trip of the Metcaw outfit to Boston. The game, which will be the second of a double-header, will be played June 25.

This will assure a big bargain series at the Walpole street grounds, an yesterday's postponed contest has been lifted for June 24.

No Haverhill Game.

HAVERHILL, April 30.—The opening game here today was called off early on account of the storm. The Lowell team, which was to have played here, opened at home tomorrow with Lawrence.

NAME. NORDICA, OPERATIC STAR, DYING IN JAIL

BATAVIA, Jav., April 30.—Physicians today gave up all hope for the recovery of Miss Lillian Nordica, the operatic star, who has been here since her arrival about a month ago.

Miss Nordica, related today two weeks ago and engaged passage for Genoa, where she expected to meet her husband, George W. Young of New York, but a few days later she suffered a relapse.

HOCK TO FRIENDS.

The news that Madame Nordica is lying comatose as a shock to her thousands of friends in Boston and New England as well as the host of admirers she has everywhere. Madame Nordica is a native of New England—she was born in a little house which still stands under a hillside near Backus Corner, in the town of Farmington, Maine. It was there when she was a child that she first learned to sing. She was in Boston in 1895, and it was in Boston that she met her husband, here that she began her musical studies and her musical career.

EPISCOPALIANS DISCUSS PAY OF MINISTERS

For two hours today Episcopal ministers and laymen debated the question, "How can we increase the ministerial salaries?" at the 13th annual convention of the Episcopal Church of Massachusetts in Huntington Hall.

THREATS STIR UP FOR SUFFRAGE

A throng of hundreds of women and perhaps a hundred men attended the suffrage rally in the Wilbur Theatre today. At 9:30 the theatre lobby was jammed, and at least 200 were waiting outside. The meeting began at 10. At noon Margaret Pringle held a "talk" and answered questions for a mixture of "anties" in the hall.

THE OLD RELIABLE KEILTY'S CREDIT

No Orders Necessary to Buy on Credit
WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING AT REGULAR CASH STORE PRICES FOR ONLY ONE DOLLAR A WEEK

It is no longer necessary to use the old style order system of buying on credit in the cash stores. We used to use this system before we had a stock of women's and children's garments in our own store. Before that time we were obliged to give you credit on your goods in some other store where they were for sale.

This same old way is still used by peddlers and other credit co's that have no stock of their own to sell.

We found our customers disliked the publicity attached to the order system, as they had to come here for their order and then go into the cash stores to get their goods. It was embarrassing to them and hurt their pride to go into a large cash store and give to a stranger, in a public place, as payment for the goods they bought, the despised order.

They preferred to do all their buying on credit, privately, in one place, and have the time, trouble, extra expense and publicity in buying on the order plan.

So we put in our own stock of Ladies' and Children's up-to-date stylish clothing to accommodate our customers who were sensitive about making their business known.

Now, here with us, they do their credit buying privately—in our store and out of our stock you get your goods—You see at once just what you are buying. You get fitted, properly, by our expert man tailor—Everything is made satisfactory to you in every way.

The transaction begins and ends here.

You buy the same goods from us, on credit, at the same prices you would pay in the Down Town Cash Stores for cash.

We can now save you the 10% we were obliged to charge you when we gave you an order to get your goods in the Cash Stores.

We can and do buy from the same manufacturers the cash stores buy from.

We buy just as cheap as they do. As we now get all the profit there is in the sale, we can afford to sell as cheap as the cash store, and do.

The advantage our present modern store system offers to you, over the old style order system, is that you can buy in our store the same goods for the same money that you can in the cash store, and save the extra charges over the cash store prices you have to pay when you buy on the order system.

If you see something you want in some other store, that you can't find in our store, we will gladly give you an order on that store, if you care to buy that way.

THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN FLAGS FLYING OVER BOSTON HOUSES

BANNERS WAVING IN CRISIS

Theatre Managers Ask Patrons Stand at Display of Flag

The Smaller theatre managers have adopted a resolution calling upon all residents of the city to fly the American flag from their homes during the Mexican crisis, and ordering the flag displayed daily on all schools and other public buildings.

Mayor Cull sent to the Aldermen a copy of a letter he has written to the proprietors of all moving picture houses, requesting that they call upon the audience to stand when the flag is shown on the screen or when any patriotic song is sung from the stage.

Filing your flag in the breeze. Let each citizen fly his flag from his home, every hill and valley.

The brave boys at the front stand at the flag to die. Let us read to die under its bright folds.

Those the whole world that you see, get true to the color. Thousands of loyal citizens desire to answer the AMERICAN appeal for a general flag display from every town and city in New England comes word of flag demonstrations in number.

of the Mexico City government, has about 15,000 men, the real power of the Mexican army. These include the Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth regiments, which have been held in the capital by Huerta because of their known loyalty.

In addition to these infantry regiments the Mexican City government also includes the Eighteenth and Twentieth regiments of rurales and the Seventeenth and Eighteenth troops of cavalry.

There are also about 1,000 cadets in the Tampico and Chapultepec military academies who would support the government.

General Huerta has commanded all the supplies which have entered the capital within the past ten days and dispatches reports that the dictator is preparing to flee. There is every indication that if war comes Huerta will make his final stand in Mexico City.

VERA CRUZ, April 29.—Tupamite mines have been planted by Mexican Federalists along the tracks of the Mexican Railroad and the Vera Cruz & Isthmus Railroad at a number of points between this city and the capital. Dr. P. A. Monday, who was among the latest refugees arriving from Oaxaca, went to Admiral Fitchard and told him of the mines and advised that the utmost precautions be taken if the American found it necessary to transport troops over the railroad lines.

The American who left Paso Del Curo for Vera Cruz have not arrived here, and their friends fear they have been cast into jail or killed by bandits.

Three American women were among the refugees from Oaxaca. They are Mrs. Monday, Mrs. W. U. Fernandez and Mrs. A. E. Pines.

A party of Americans employed by the Alvarado Construction Company and their families arrived here after a series of exciting experiences. In this party were J. W. Weber, Mrs. Weber and four children of St. Louis; Grinnam, Mrs. Grinnam and two children of John Island, N. C.; Eugene Knight of Yorktown, Va.; and Henry Brenwald of Ouse County, Oregon.

LIFT QUARANTINE AT GALVESTON AND LAND 500 REFUGEES

GALVESTON, Tex., April 29.—The quarantine of refugees from Mexico who have been held in quarantine on the battleship Connecticut for several days, were released today and landed in small boats in the midst of a driving rain. The quarantine, which had been ordered because of strict precautions against smallpox was declared off at daylight. Two actual cases of smallpox and one suspected case had developed on board the Connecticut, but all were removed to local hospitals for treatment and the non-development of further cases caused Major McWhorter, the State quarantine officer, to lift the barrier.

The last Cross Agents on board with Folds and each Galveston territorial railroad had its agents on the pier with blank check books to expedite the departure of all anxious to reach their homes.

The minute the quarantine was lifted from the Connecticut, Major Thierney, United States Marshal Frank Thierney, heading the individuals who had arrested a man who had gone on board the battleship with some other refugees and a quarantined group, had been seen on the pier in connection with the battleship of a United States secret code to the Mexicans. The suspect, a former government employee, was indicted in London, but fled across the border. The missing government code book was found on the battleship in the refuge's luggage.

MEXICANS RELEASE AMERICAN LAWYER HELD FOR 2 WEEKS

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Wilson, a lawyer of Mexico City, has been released by General Carranza, according to the State Department, today. Wilson was held on a train at La Villa about two weeks ago with some other Americans and detained by Federal forces.

A few days ago he was returned to Mexico City. The anti-American action at the Alvarado Construction Company's camp at Oaxaca reached Vera Cruz via a fishing schooner. They were not molested on route. The party is composed of Peter W. Walters and wife and four children of St. Louis; H. H. Grinnam and son of John Island, N. C.; Eugene Knight of Yorktown, Texas; Henry M. Knight of Oregon; Frank Adams and Walter Schuchman and wife.

PABIS TEMPS SEES HONOR FOR HUERTA IN SACRIFICE FOR MEXICO

PARIS, April 29.—In an editorial the Temps declares that President Huerta can find in the mediation of the South American republics, an opportunity to withdraw himself from a situation which would not last long without moral danger to Mexico.

Europe refuses to hold Huerta responsible for the killing of Madero, the Temps continues. It does not comprehend why his quarrel with President Wilson should cause the downfall of Mexico. Huerta must make a sacrifice for the salvation of his country.

Carry Out Invalid in South End Fire

Mrs. Octavia Coru, an invalid, was carried to the street from the top floor of the dwelling house, No. 47 Shawmut avenue, this afternoon, by two men, through smoke-filled hallways, after twenty-five others, men, women and children, fled from the lower rooms when fire was discovered in the store on the ground floor occupied as a pawnshop by Myer Rosen. The damage was $500.

Warden Bridges Is 78 Years Old Today

General Benjamin F. Bridges, who has been warden at the Massachusetts State Prison for the past twenty-one years, observed his seventieth birthday anniversary today. With the exception of a slight rheumatic trouble, the general is hale and hearty as he was twenty-five years ago. Speaking for himself he said that he felt better equipped than he was ten years ago to perform his duties by reason of the experience he has had during those years.

Stone Witness in Steamship Suit

NEW YORK, April 29.—Clara L. Stone of Boston was the first witness in the hearing on the Jennie H. Morse suit for recovery of the Metropolitan Steamship Company of New Jersey. He stated that value of properties taken over by Eastern Steamship Corporation had been determined as a percentage of both properties aggregated $5,500,000 based on cash transaction. His recollection was that Metropolitan Steamship Company of Maine was given a value of about $1,300,000, and $4,200,000 for the Maine Steamship Company.

School Romance in Waltham Wedding

ATTLEBORO, April 29.—After a hearing which 200 citizens attended the Selectmen voted not to grant any drug store licenses nor the sale of liquor for the coming year.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Official denial of the report that United States warships have shelled Manzanillo, on the west coast of Mexico, was made at the White House today. Secretary to the President Tumulty said: "There is absolutely nothing to the story. The Pacific fleet did not fire upon Manzanillo nor upon any other Mexican town. So far as we know the only incident out of the ordinary was an incendiary fire at Manzanillo, which probably gave rise to the report."

WASHINGTON, April 30.—General Huerta and General Carranza will be asked to send envoys to Washington to discuss mediation with the envoys of Argentina, Brazil and Chili, according to a report in diplomatic circles today.

THE SQUARE DEAL MAKES MANY G. V. FRIENDS

A certain corporation pays out nearly $40,000 annually to have its ashes hauled away. We figured with them and admitted that we couldn't save them a cent with G. V. Electric or as yet any kind of motor truck. Peculiar operating conditions.

Near Fall River we figured with a mill man who would have to pave his yard and strengthen a bridge to use a 5-ton G. V. truck to advantage. We told him that the repairs would cost more than the truck would save him for years. And we made a friend worth several sales.

111 OF THESE G. V.'S ARE OPERATED BY THE AMERICAN EXPRESS COMPANY THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES.

The square deal pays. We have sent back the signed contract in several cases, because we found there was something better than our product for a particular purpose. That's why we are on our 5th thousand of G. V. Electrics.

No firm need hesitate to ask us about a difficult trucking or delivery problem, for we really do go about selling our product in a conscientious way. You owe it to your investment to be certain you have the best, for that means the cheapest. It means operating satisfaction, too.

Your Grandmother's Remedy for Purifying the Blood

And Renovating the System in the Springtime

Ask for Sulphur Tablets.

What was grandmother's remedy? Haven't you heard of it? Yes, you have! It was sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses.

The main trouble with it was its nauseous taste.

A modern method puts the cream of tartar and sulphur into a sugar-coated tablet and mixes them with herbs, roots, etc., making a wonderful tonic blood purifier and system cleanser.

Just try Sulphur Tablets (not sulphur tablets), but Sulphur—remember the name—and get the tablets in sealed tubes at 50¢ per tube.

Don't trust people and children who don't feel well, who are constipated or sluggish, or who have pimples, boils, eruptions, ulcers and the like, can soon rid the system of these impurities by taking this good old-fashioned remedy in modern form. Their action analyses or money is refunded by the Prescription Product Company, Dayton, Ohio. A free trial sent to any address. Buy of any well-stocked druggist.

A Love Story of the Forest

Idyllic, charming, thrilling. The first of a series

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Mr. Chambers writes the most alluring love stories of the day. But into this new series of amorous adventures in the forests he has put something more. They are big with the spirit of "all outdoors," and they compel admiration for the little band of men who are striving to conserve and rebuild the national resources. He calls the series "The Progress of Janet."

A Woman's Great Problem

"The sin that ye do ye must pay for" is the motif of this tale

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS

He has never before brought his literary skill and finesse into play on a more delicate problem than the one in this story. Read it and see whether you think the woman is justified in not telling—and what about the man? Could their lives ever be happy with this barrier of deceit between them? He calls the story "Secrets."

Intrigue and a Mysterious Beauty

CHAPTER I

The Abduction Plot.

Robert Daubrais looked back in his chair and looked at him with a sigh of satisfaction. Far and wide the monthly clipped laves stretched away in cool, green vistas of loveliness, everything seemed conducive to an easy frame of mind, and Robert Daubrais had no call to be otherwise than perfectly content with what the fates had brought him.

His affairs in Paris were running smoothly, there was nothing to worry about, and here in the garden of his London home he could remain and rest for as long a period of time as he desired. The book in his fingers was open, but he was not reading. He was thinking to himself that he was a supremely lucky man.

"And some day soon," he chuckled to himself, as his thin lips curved back from his teeth in a smile of satisfaction, "the brat will die, and hard as it will be for Louise, she'll have to make the best of it, and I, Robert Daubrais, will at last come into my own."

He smiled contentedly, and lazily watched a servant leave the house and come toward him with a letter of some kind in a small tray.

"Business follows me even here," he said to himself with a shrug of the shoulders. "Ah, well, it will not be for long, not for long."

A letter for you, sir," said the servant, handing him the letter.

The departing hastily, Robert Daubrais had a way of inspiring people with a feeling of distance. Even the servants disliked him, although he was a kind enough master. There was an intangible something about him that made people distrust, strange as it may seem.

THE GARDEN and Galleys," he muttered. "How I wonder what they are, 't'ing me about? Must be something important."

The letter unfolded with shaking fingers. The letter within was brief and to the point.

Mr. Robert Daubrais—When your brother died in Paris some months ago there were reasonable grounds for belief that you would share in his estate, for he left only one male heir, a child who had been born to him.

But the physicians declared that the child was dead, and that since his husband's death, your sister-in-law has given birth to another child who is healthy and robust.

On this child, Remi, she contrived to get her hands, and so he will undoubtedly live, your chances of gaining part of the fortune is apparently gone.

Very truly yours, GABRIEL AND GALLEY.

The shock to Daubrais was terrific. For a moment he sat staring at the letter, his fingers trembling like a leaf. The letter came from London, the letter came from London, the letter came from London.

But with the first shock over, his cunning brain began to search about for some way out of the difficulty. To be robbed of his fortune just when he had felt that everything was secure. Never!

The unexpected arrival of the letter had brought with it the accompanying bad luck for him. Then the only thing to do would be to make way with the child. But how? Murder was too risky, and, besides, for business reasons, he could not be killed in anything so public as a street.

He must get rid of the child somehow, secretly, as he thought of it, he sprang to his feet in his eagerness.

"Murder!" of course, just the thing. Why didn't I think of this before? He'll do anything for a few bills. I'll go up to Paris immediately, and will

Wonders of the Air

An Aeroplane That Folds Up, and Other Marvels

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

It will not be believed that the perfect aeroplane must be a close imitation of a bird, may see a student toward their ideal in the latest design, "sea-plane," which is an aeroplane intended to be carried on board of warships, and launched from their decks whenever an enemy's fleet is to be reconnoitered.

These aerial scouts are furnished with folding wings, as the photographs show, and because of this device they occupy only one-quarter of the space required for storing the old style aeroplane with non-folding wings. Besides, in their hands, with the plane closed over their backs they look more like gigantic insects in repose than like birds.

SEVENTY MILES AN HOUR
The span of the extended wings of the sea-plane here shown is 70 feet, but when the wings are folded the span is reduced to ten feet. Alighting on the water at the ships' side after an exploration, one of these scouts can fold its wings, ready for hoisting aboard, in less than a single minute, while the spreading of the wings for a flight is accomplished with equal quickness. The speed attained by this type is said to be as much as 70 miles an hour, and it carries fuel for five hours flight.

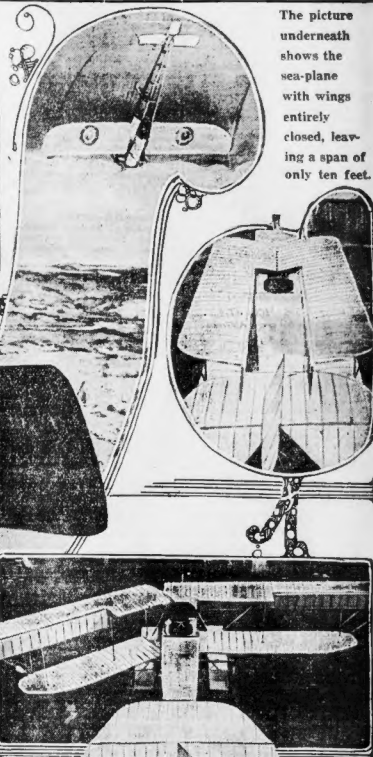

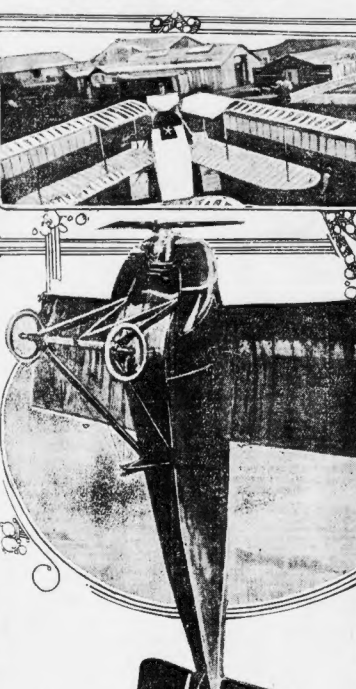

The usefulness of the folding aeroplane as a naval scout appears to have been completely demonstrated, as is possible without actual trial in a flying machine. It is just as applicable to aeroplanes intended to be used over land as military operations, where, in some cases, the saving of space is of the greatest importance. The planes when not in use to almost as important as at sea.

While these new types are being developed experimental progress is being made in the manipulation of aeroplanes during actual flight. Those who have not witnessed any of the extraordinary feats performed in the air by Piccard and others in France, and by Hamel and Hucks in England will be able to gain a better appreciation of what they mean from the extraordinary picture on this page, showing at one view, the two designs of English pilots performing simultaneously manoeuvres at Hurdon.

In the foreground in Hamel's machine making a "tail-dive" after a swift backward run, and, as will be seen, his monoplane stands as nearly straight up and down in the air as the tail of a porcupine. Less than two seconds ago such a performance would have been deemed impossible as a jump over the moon.

A LOOP
In the background Hucks, in his "Hick" is describing a regular loop in the air, a much less thrilling feat, but one which is equally dangerous. In other, since it exhibits none of the devil-gone quality of the "tail-dive" loop, it looks like a machine vertically until it loses his machine.

The picture on the right shows Hucks looping-the-loop in white Bleriot; the picture underneath shows the folding sea-plane just as the wings are about to be closed up.

The new sea-plane with one wing partly folded.

glide to slide down backward in the air. He coolly allows the machine to glide in this way until it gathers so much velocity that the "elevators" seen at the bottom, bring the tail up again. Then Hamel makes a forward dive and reaches complete control.

There has been wide discussion of the scientific and other, or these aerial gymnastics, but notwithstanding the condemnation that some pronounce against them they have already taught many things about the possibilities of aeroplanes and the possibilities of man.

The picture underneath shows the sea-plane with wings entirely closed, leaving a span of only ten feet.

Up-to-the Minute Jokes
A travelling salesman died suddenly and was taken home. His relatives stipulated to the nearest florist, some roses distant, to make a wreath. The ribbon should be extra wide, with the inscription "Rest in Peace" on both sides, and if there was room "We shall meet in Heaven."

Jones, who doesn't own a motor-car, and is never likely to, was met at the motor show by a friend, who expressed surprise to see him there. "Well," said Jones, "it's lovely once a year to come and look at a whole mass of cars that you don't have to do."

Little Bobbie's Pa

I WAS learning a piece to speak in school next Friday last. I mean I was learning the piece I am going to recite now. I mean I was learning the piece I am going to recite now. I mean I was learning the piece I am going to recite now.

At the entrance of the great stone house Daubrais passed a moment and made an almost imperceptible sign to his companion, who smiled casually on, with his hands in his pockets. He had entered the house of his sister-in-law. The next moment he was ushered into the street drawing room, and as Louise rose to greet him with a smile of pleasure, he rushed forward and kissed her tenderly.

"Such wonderful news, my dear Louise," he hurried up as soon as I heard to tell you how glad I am.

"We are all glad," said Madame Daubrais, gravely, and then, as her face brightened, "it is such a wonderful baby." Of course you want to see him. I will take you up to the nursery, where the baby is.

Daubrais followed her up to the nursery, where the baby was. He saw a wonderful little fellow, strong and rosy with large dark eyes. "Such a beautiful little fellow," he said, "and how small he is! He is just like a doll."

The maid had left the room a while ago. Daubrais had gone to the nursery, where the baby was. He saw a wonderful little fellow, strong and rosy with large dark eyes. "Such a beautiful little fellow," he said, "and how small he is! He is just like a doll."

Did you ever see an orfismme, I asked Ma. I don't know, said Ma. I mite have seen one out in the Franklin Park Zoo.

No, and Pa, you didn't see any one any longer. I think it is time for me to go home. I think it is time for me to go home. I think it is time for me to go home.

I don't think Master Longfellow ever wrote this poem I am learning. I told Pa. You said it was Longfellow's. I said it was Longfellow's. I said it was Longfellow's.

As it was, said Pa, he rote that the little morning he rote Maude Daubrais. I rote all about it. Master Whittier rote Maude Daubrais, I rote, and Ma, it was Maude Daubrais. I rote all about it.

I guess that I rote as well as you rote the orfismme & sea sun of the boy and Pa. When my own family don't believe in my superior knowledge any longer, I think it is time for me to go home. I think it is time for me to go home. I think it is time for me to go home.

BRAIN FOG

Brain fog is an ailment common to all who work at high pressure. To revitalize the system, strengthen the nerves and clear the brain, you need Wincamin, a liquid food without a drug. It contains nothing but vitalizing, strengthening ingredients—Liebig's Extract of Beef, Extract of Malt and pure natural wine, combined by a special process into a palatable beverage. Used in England 30 years, recommended by 10,000 physicians. A small wine glass full two or three times a day really brings quick results. Try it, and see for yourself.
